My dear Sir,

I beg you to accept my most grateful acknowledgment of your benevolence towards me, by your kind note of yesterday.× You have thereby rendered me, as our friend Dennie used to say, "Knight's service". Had I not been rendered penniless, I would not have made the application. The source from which I have received the solicited aid, very greatly enhances its value to me — "a friend in need is a friend indeed"

I am, D.r Sir,
Your much obliged friend

Dear Sir

Mr Brown having informed us that you wished to receive a note from us, relative to his continuance or dismission from his present station, as Sexton of St Peter's Church, we can only say, that his past general neglect of duty induced our loud and frequent complaints to the Rector. He has since acknowledged his improper conduct, and having removed the causes, he promises the most unremitted attention his failure, under the penalty of removal upon the first occasion of complaint &c; therefore, the committee think proper to comply with his request of trial, till the next meeting of Centry, we shall not oppose their indulgence.

With great respect yrs
